Aurora is a character builder who lets you create and control characters for your dungeon and dragons game. It comes complete with all content that is included in the system reference document under the Open Gaming license and can be expanded with additional files. This is a project created and supported by one developer, not a team. Once you try the character builder and like what you see, please consider making a donation. Expand content by importing files that have already been created, or creating files yourself. The built-in compendium allows you to search for content such as races, spells, and items. Create a PDF ready to be viewed and printed. Including additional maps for spells, items and more. You can download the latest version below. Once you've completed your installation, you can start Aurora with newly created labels on your desktop and from the start menu. You can also check out the quick introduction to character creation from Aurora in the Get Started section. Red: Bad, useless options, or options that are extremely situational. Orange: OK options, or useful options that only apply in rare cases. Green: Good options. Blue: Fantastic options are often needed to feature your character. I won't include 3-party content, including content from the DMs Guild, even if it's my own, because I can't assume that your game will allow 3-way content or homegrown. I also won't cover the unearthed Arcana content because it's not complete and I can't guarantee that it will be available to you in your games. Introduction Mechanically, Tabaxi is very strong with a set of racial traits well suited to stealth and penetration. They tend to excel in classes that already have good skills, so their two racial skills can expand those classes to already good skills. With Darkvision and climbing speed, Tabaxi can go many places that other races may have problems with achievement. Be sure to use your unusual motion capabilities to surprise enemies or avoid situations that can be dangerous. against Tabaksi Kenku and Tabaksi have many coincidences. Their scoring ability increases similar and they get similar skills. However, the slight differences between the two leave some room for one to succeed over over depending on the needs of the class or assembly. Artificer classes Poor distribution ability. Barbarian barbarians could make great use of Feline agility and speed climbing, but they are too reliant on the racial force of the increase in tobacco to be a good option. Bard Tabaxi's ability to score increases is ideal for the bard, regardless of your college choice. Free Tabaxi skills help further the bard's already excellent skills. Even the taste is lining up well: Tabaxi is described as a curious wanderer, a trade in stories and trinkets. A cleric without increasing Wisdom. Cleric is really a tough class for Tabaxi. You could do something with the trickery domain, but mechanically Tabaxi offers little that can't be done better than Kenku. Druid All the same questions as the clergyman. Feline Agility seems to be working while you're using Wild Shape, but that's not enough to make the race/class combination worth it. The Dexterity fighter is the perfect base for a fighter jet, regardless of whether you choose to use a rapier or long-range weapon. Free Tabaxi skills can help you fill roles usually filled with rogues, but you may need to pick up knowledge in Thieves' Tools from your background to close the skillset. Monk Dexterity is a good base for the monk, and the monk's increasing speed refers to the speed of Tabaksi's ascent, which makes you an excellent climber. Numerically, Kenku and Wood Elf are probably the best options because of their wisdom increases, and The Claws of The Tobacco do not allow to deal with the reduction of damage since Monk increased unarmed blow damage. Paladin Dexterity and Charisma work great for the paladin. Take the rapier and suit out of full plate and you're good to go. Feline Agility will help you in close combat even in heavy armor, and your ascent speed will help with obstacles most paladins can't easily overcome without help. Ranger Kenku is the best option for the Ranger because of the increasing wisdom of Kenku, but Tabaxi is still a good option. Increased agility is always welcome, and the free skill Tabaxi skills will close the skill gap between a ranger and another class like Bard and Rogue, who gain more skills while filling a similar role in the party. The rogue Tabaxi ability to score increases the job perfectly for the rogue, and the free skills skills that each rogue should have anyway. Take skills such as deception and persuasion to benefit from Tabaksi's increasing charisma, and you have a highly skilled, charming rogue. The Sorcerer's Charisma increase is a good start for the sorcerer, and Agility will help with your air conditioning, but Tabaxi doesn't offer anything particularly useful for the sorcerer. If you want to be a charmer, the sorcerer may be the best option. Sorcerer Dexterity and Charisma are perfectly under the joy for the sorcerer. Your Will pad your AC, and Charisma will fuel your spells. Tabaksi's racial skills don't directly serve the sorcerer, but nothing prevents you from building a sneaky sneaky Take the background with skill in thieves tools and you can make a convincing impression of arcane Trickster Rogue. Wizard None of the damn Tabaksi works well for the Wizard. Just started a new campaign and was curious if there were any free creator of software characters that are free for us that don't need the time or patience to draw. Made by Tabaxi and cat people, it seems not a variant of LASTEST UPDATE 12-September-2020: Add a sunny soul for the monk (desired by Eiffel) and the Divine Soul for the Sorcerer (desired by Cypher). 30-Aug-2020: Add Lizardfolk race (wish Leif) and the tomb of the domain for the clergyman (wish Elmiore). 23-August-2020: Add samurai for fighter (desired by Darkfire3131) and Changling races (desired monpotestnul). 15-August-2020: Add ancestors keeper for barbarians (wish Shan). 14-August 2020: Add Goblin Racing (Wished by HiversBlanc), Darkness Stalker for Ranger and Fix Slayer's Magic Monster. This app is not affiliated, endorsed, sponsored or endorsed by Wizards coast LLC. This online app will allow you to create/create a character for D'D 5 from A to I. The program will guide you and offer you all available options, from race to equipment. At the end, you'll be able to print out a character sheet, keep the character locally in your machine to develop it later, or keep a character sheet on our server. My Characters lets you access your character's sheets online. FASTDICEROLL.COM companion website is currently up, another online alternative dice roller. When placing in zoom and sharing screens, it allows the DM to share the screen for big fights without lagging behind to find in some VTT and and dice rollers. Check it out, feedback is welcome! And yes, updates from the Tasha source will be added along with the long overdue Xanathar subclasses and spells. The site will also include Eugene Marshall's great ideas from pedigree and culture: An alternative to race 5e once compared to how Tasha handles a similar rule.
